

DARING COURIER BRAVED BARRAGE

Sergeant MacElroy Carried On With Dispatches, Though Wounded

LOW CASUALTY RECORD

Fewer Names on List Today Than at Any Time Since July

GEORGE L. MACELROY, SERGEANT WOUNDED

Sergeant George L. MacElroy, reported wounded, arrived at his home, 135 East Fisher's Lane, Olney, today, with two wound stripes and a recommendation for a Distinguished Service Cross. He is only nineteen years old.

Sergeant MacElroy arrived in Newport News March 9, and was convalescing at Camp Dix until he was discharged yesterday. He was a member of Company H, 109th Infantry, and has been overseas since last May.

On July 18, MacElroy was wounded in both knees while bearing dispatches to and from officers directing the Chateau Thierry engagement. Although wounded soon after he started out, he delivered a message to Colonel Millard Brown of this city. The Red Cross, through a heavy barrage five miles long, after arriving at headquarters he said nothing of being wounded but was taken to the hospital a week later when officers discovered his swelling knees and weak condition. He recovered after six weeks and was reassigned to Company B, 164th Infantry.

Of the organizations overseas to help the soldiers he said: "The Red Cross, the Knights of Columbus and the Salvation Army were right on the job."

The total number of casualties in the War Department report today is less than it has been at any time since the American troops first went into action early last July. There are only eighty-six men on the nation's honor roll today.

Four men, three of whom are reported dead, are from this city. They are Angelo Musto, 2314 South Alder street, killed in action; Harry A. Jenks, 120 North Sixty-first street, died from wounds; John Patrick McCann, Commercial avenue and Wolf street, died of disease; and John D. Patterson, 18 North Lindenwood street, returned to the States after having been missing for several months. Only eleven men from this city are in the report.

PRINCETON TO GET TRUCE FLAG

Emblem That Marked Cessation of Warfare Offered to University Princeton, N. J., March 26.—Princeton University is to receive as part of its war relic collection the actual flag of truce under which American staff officers first entered German territory beyond the Rhine. Lieutenant Alex L. Scheinsinger, member of the class of 1912, now serving with the army of occupation and who acted as interpreter in an amicable parley between German and American officers, has offered the historic souvenir to his alma mater.

With the gift of the flag there is to be included a map showing the exact locality where the conference between the German and United States officers took place. This "white flag of truce" was carried across the Rhine and into the neutral zone at the Coblenz bridgehead, which was held by the Third United States Army Corps.

Now Ready! Montgomery's 1919 Income Tax Procedure

This Complex Law The Highest Authority is more drastic and calls for a heavier toll than any former revenue bill in all history. The possibilities of under- or over-payment are enormous for the man who proceeds unaided with his final 1919 returns.

How to Revise Every Item of Your Final Income Tax Return

This new manual makes every possible difficulty immediately clear for the final returns of corporations and all others with intricate problems to solve. It is packed with definite information on Income Tax Procedure and gives the most authoritative advice obtainable on hundreds of points in preparing final returns. It covers the law in its entirety and gives plain, unmistakable instructions on every point. Montgomery's object is to simplify the whole procedure in plain terms and compact form. Every conceivable aspect is presented in one handy volume and one supplement, all firmly interlinked by a comprehensive index which makes every point instantly accessible.

The dangers of under- or over-payment are much greater this year than ever before. Inclusion of a very small item not taxable under the law may cost you many times the price of this manual.

By using Montgomery's work in revising your final returns you may save as many dollars last year, thousands of dollars and many hours or days of valuable time.

Gives Definite Procedure Over 20,000 Used Last Year

The procedure Montgomery recommends is always clear and specific. He is never non-committal, never side-steps any hard point. In every case he supplies the answer. He is a lawyer and accountant of international reputation, author of the standard work "Auditing Theory and Practice," and "Income Tax Procedure" for 1917 and 1918. His position as an Income Tax expert is unassailable.

With this manual you will learn more in five minutes than you could worry out for yourself in a week.
